

The Benefits of Teak Wood Furniture

TEAK WITHSTANDS THE ELEMENTS

- Exceptionally strong and durable, teak lasts a lifetime in a wide range of climates
- Natural oils and rubber in the wood form barriers against the elements, without sealers or finishes
- Teak wood is derived from mature teak trees, which have the natural ability to ward off dry rot, fungus, and parasites.

TEAK IS LOW MAINTENANCE

- Teak requires no preservatives, paint, or varnish
- As it weathers over time, the wood goes from an amber brown color to a weathered silvery gray if left unvarnished
- When dried to a proper moisture level -- around 10 percent of its original content -- the oils and rubber naturally and effectively weatherproof the wood

TEAK IS ENVIRONMENTALLY FRIENDLY

- Teak is a renewable biological material and contains no plastics, petroleum or VOCs
- The durability of teak makes it an eco-friendly investment because you will not have to discard and replace your furniture after only a few years of use
- Teak wood grows quickly, allowing this valuable resource to be rapidly replenished

TEAK DOES NOT HEAT UP OR COOL DOWN

- It's a natural feature of this wood to not be influenced by outdoor temperature changes
- Unlike metal or other woods, teak outdoor furniture will not burn in the hot sun or be cold in the morning
- Money saved on not buying outdoor furniture covers, as well as storage gained from not having to bring your furniture in out of the elements, is an advantage of teak wood furniture
